Cheap Food Items: Osun Resident in tears as firm disappears after collecting millions of naira

Opeyemi Abolarinwa

Residents of Osogbo and its environs in Osun State, have regretted patronising a suspected fraudulent company that has suddenly shut down operations after allegedly collecting money running into millions of naira from unsuspecting members of the public for cheap food items.

Some days ago, the firm that identified itself as “Global Food Initiative”, had opened at Odi-Olowo area of Osogbo, the state capital and was distributing fliers that contained unusually cheap prices of food items such as bags of rice, cooking oil, spaghetti and semovita, and beverages.

The information on a flier circulated around strategic locations in Osogbo about fortnight ago and sighted by STANDARD TIMES reads, “Global Food Initiative is a temporal programme designed to reduce the prices of food for the consumers. Our customers are allowed to collect their food items 7 days from the day he/she paid for the food items.

The reason why our customers will stay for 7 days before collecting their food items is to avoid crowd in our shop, and to make sure that the food items booked by the customers are available before the collection.

Visit our physical shop at Odi-Olowo, opposite NEPA Office, Omokayode Shopping Complex, Osogbo, Osun State for your cheaper prices of food items.

The food items we have for now are: bags of semovita, cartons of noodles, bags of rice, gallons of groundnut oil, and so on at cheaper rates.”

With images of the food items, the flier also showcased prices of the items it claimed to have been in stock: “Super pack (Income/120gramm) N7,000; 50kg bag of rice – N27,000; 5 liters of Golden Terra groundnut oil – N8,000; 25 liters of Kings Oil – N30,000; 10kg of Golden Penny Seo vita — N8,000; packet of golden penny spaghetti — N10,000; carton of Terra Gold Maggi — N12,000.”

Two phone numbers were also pasted on the flier of which the firm asked members of the public to contact “for more information.”

STANDARD TIMES gathered that immediately the flier was in circulation, many residents, including business men and women who deal in wholesale sales of food items, had stormed the area and booked for their choice food items according to the condition set by the firm.

After about a week that the firm launched its programme, some first time patronisers were said to have received the items they purchased, a development that further attracted hundreds of other interested residents to participate with their huge amounts of money to book for the unusually low prices of food items.

to mobilise support for Tinubu, Adeola and other APC candidates ahead of the 2027 elections.

Alliance announces statewide mobilisation:

Prolonged absence: Sowore’s party, AAC sues Tinubu for refusing to hand over power

The African Action Congress, AAC, has sued President Bola Tinubu before the Federal High Court, Abuja Division, over his refusal to hand over power to Vice-President Kashim Shettima since he travelled to Europe on August 30, 2026.

The suit, tagged FHC/ABJ/CS/2353/2026 and dated September 28, 2026, was filed by way of an originating summons by the AAC’s National Legal Adviser, Inihebe Effiong.

According to the suit, President Tinubu is listed as the first defendant; the Attorney-General of the Federation, Lateef Fagbemi, as the second defendant; the President of the Senate, Godswill Akpabio, as the third defendant; the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Abbas Tajudeen, as the fourth defendant; and the National Assembly as the fifth defendant.

Recall that the President left Nigeria for Europe for a three-week working vacation as part of his annual leave.

The Presidency, on September 21, when Tinubu was originally billed to return to Nigeria, announced an extension of the President’s vacation by a few more days, with his return expected last weekend.

Meanwhile, as of Monday, September 28, President Tinubu had yet to return.

In the suit, the AAC is seeking a declaration that President Tinubu’s failure or refusal to transmit a written declaration to the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to enable the National Assembly to pass a resolution authorising Vice-President Kashim Shettima to perform the functions of the office of President as Acting President, is undemocratic, unlawful and a violation of Section 145(1) of the 1999 Constitution (as amended).

2027: INEC moves to address operational gaps, sets date for PVC collection

The Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) has directed its officials to tackle operational gaps and strengthen neutrality as preparations intensify for the 2027 general elections.

The Commission also announced that collection of Permanent Voter Cards (PVCs) would begin on October 9 across the country.

INEC Chairman, Prof.

Joash Amupitan, SAN, gave the directive on Monday in Kaduna at the North-West Zonal Interactive Meeting with Staff and Readiness Assessment for the 2027 General Election.

The engagement is part of INEC’s six-zone national tour to assess its preparedness, identify challenges affecting field operations and develop solutions ahead of the elections.

Amupitan said the exercise was designed to strengthen the foundations of the electoral process, stressing that the success of an election depended largely on activities at the grassroots.

“The true success of any election is not decided solely in the meeting rooms of our headquarters in Abuja. It is decided in the field,” he said.

He urged officials to use the engagement to identify practical challenges confronting election administration in their areas and work with the headquarters to resolve them before election day.

The INEC chairman said the Commission was drawing lessons from recent elections as it prepared for the larger national assignment in 2027.

He also warned officials against partisan conduct and administrative negligence, stressing that neutrality and professionalism among field personnel would be critical to public confidence in the electoral process.

"So with this programme, we are training 200 people. We will also be distributing 500 tablets during the grand finale of the programme as part of the Federal Government's digital empowerment drive.

"We are directly empowering 700 people in this programme and there will be multiplier effect.

Olanipekun told the court that the offer had been rejected by the plaintiffs' counsel, who later approached the court for an order permitting substituted service on Tinubu, alleging that the plaintiffs subsequently attempted to "deceive the court" by claiming that they were unable to serve the first defendant.

Justice Ekwo, however, urged the lawyers to focus on the business of the day.

Protect Children, Empower Youths, End Human Suffering, NBM Charges UN

By Titus Oise, Benin

The NBM of Africa Worldwide has charged world leaders gathered for the 81st United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) to move beyond speeches and diplomatic declarations by taking decisive action to protect vulnerable population and restore hope to millions facing poverty, conflict, exclusion and preventable tragedies.

The organisation made the appeal as world leaders converge on the United Nations Headquarters in New York for the high-level week of the 81st General Assembly, whose central theme is "Restoring Trust, Managing Transformation: A United Nations That Delivers for All." The General Debate runs from September 22 to 26.

In a terse statement by its President, Dr Charles Chimezie, the NBM urged the global community to ensure that the voices of the most vulnerable are not drowned by the grandeur and rhetoric of the world's most powerful gathering.

Chimezie said the true test of the summit should not be the eloquence of speeches delivered by world leaders, but the number of lives made safer, freer and more dignified through decisions taken at the global forum.

According to him, from children denied access to education and families displaced by conflicts to young people deprived of opportunities and innocent lives lost through preventable tragedies, the world continues to face a profound humanitarian challenge that demands urgent and coordinated action.

He said Africa must no longer remain merely a subject of international discussions, stressing that the continent should be recognised as an indispensable partner in advancing global peace, economic justice, sustainable development and humanitarian progress.

The NBM president maintained that no nation could claim genuine prosperity while its most vulnerable citizens remained neglected, just as lasting peace would remain elusive where injustice, exclusion and hopelessness persisted.

Chimezie further called on the United Nations, governments and international development partners to translate diplomatic commitments into measurable, sustained and accountable action, particularly in protecting children, empowering young people, promoting peaceful coexistence and ensuring that no community is abandoned.

The reform incorporates concerns raised during the September 17 stakeholder engagement by operators, enterprises and industry associations.

It comes amid renewed scrutiny of the Free Zones scheme following recent enforcement by Customs over alleged diversion of goods admitted under Free Zone concessions into the domestic market.

"Let this operation serve as a strong warning to those who see our forests and farmlands as bases for criminal enterprise. The NDLEA Edo State Command will not rest until cannabis cultivation is rooted out of our communities.

"We are combining intelligence-driven surveillance, community engagement, and decisive enforcement in this campaign," he said.

Ofoyeju said the command remained determined to tackle the state's drug problem, noting that the operation demonstrated its resolve to protect communities from the consequences of drug abuse and trafficking.

Pantami and the Electoral Act: Why the Membership Register Matters

By Adamu Hussaini

I had not intended to join the ongoing debate surrounding Professor Isa Ali Pantami's participation in the forthcoming Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) governorship primary in Gombe State. However, as someone who supports his aspiration and believes public discussions should be anchored on facts rather than assumptions, I consider it necessary to offer a legal perspective.

At the outset, I agree that compliance with the Electoral Act is not optional. Every political party and aspirant must operate within the framework of the law. Section 77 of the Electoral Act 2026 is central to the current debate. Specifically, Section 77(4) requires every political party to submit its membership register to the Independent National Electoral Commission (INEC) not later than 21 days before the date fixed for its primaries, congresses or conventions. Sections 77(5) and 77(6) further regulate participation in party primaries based on the membership register submitted to INEC.

However, it is important to distinguish between what the law expressly requires and what some commentators have inferred. The Act requires the submission of the party's membership register within the stipulated period. It does not expressly create a separate requirement that an aspirant must personally have been a party member for at least 21 days before the primary.

The critical legal question, therefore, is whether the aspirant's name appears in the membership register validly submitted to INEC within the statutory timeline.

In Professor Pantami's case, it has been publicly stated that he became a PDP member on 19 May 2026. Following the Federal High Court's judgment of 24 September 2026, which nullified the earlier process that produced him as the PDP governorship candidate and ordered the party to conduct a fresh primary, the party is expected to organise another primary in compliance with the court's directives.

Accordingly, the issue should not be reduced to a broad assertion that Professor Pantami is automatically disqualified because of an alleged "21-day membership rule." Rather, the relevant factual and legal questions are whether the PDP complied with the Electoral Act in submitting its membership register to INEC and whether Professor Pantami's name appears in the register applicable to the fresh primary.

For a primary scheduled for 29 September 2026, the statutory 21-day period would ordinarily fall on 8 September 2026. The pertinent question therefore becomes: Was Professor Pantami's name contained in the PDP membership register submitted to INEC by the statutory deadline for that primary?

That question can only be answered by reference to the official membership register submitted to INEC and other relevant party records—not by speculation or political argument.

I support Professor Pantami's participation in the fresh primary because I believe every aspirant should be judged according to the applicable law, authentic party records, relevant court decisions and verifiable facts. Eligibility should neither be assumed nor denied on the basis of interpretations that go beyond what the law expressly provides.

Public debate is healthy in a democracy, but it is most valuable when it is guided by evidence rather than conjecture. Where questions of eligibility arise, the appropriate approach is to examine the Electoral Act, the party's constitution and guidelines, the membership register before INEC and the decisions of competent courts.

That, ultimately, is how the rule of law is preserved.

UBEC To Begin 10-Year Education Roadmap In October

The Universal Basic Education Commission (UBEC) is set to commence implementation of its 10-year Universal Basic Education Roadmap, 2026–2035, in the first week of October.

The UBEC Executive Secretary, Dr Aisha Garba, disclosed this in Abuja on Monday at a two-day consultative workshop with chairmen of the 36 State Universal Basic Education Boards (SUBEBs) and UBEC directors.

Garba said the roadmap would replace the practice of implementing isolated infrastructure projects without addressing the broader needs of individual schools.

The UBEC boss also unveiled the Basic Education Action Plan Management System (BEAPMS), a digital platform designed to improve planning, transparency and monitoring of basic education projects nationwide.

She said the Commission had adopted a “whole school approach” to basic education development, under which interventions would be based on the comprehensive needs of individual schools rather than disconnected projects.

Garba explained that the approach was designed to end the practice of constructing a few classrooms or supplying furniture without providing other essential facilities required for a functional learning environment.

“You don’t just put in a furniture or you drop two blocks of classrooms and you leave because you want to give out awards.

No, you have to take in all the comprehensive needs of that particular school,” the UBEC Executive Secretary stressed.

She noted that where a school lacked fencing or toilets, such facilities would form part of the intervention plan, while additional classrooms would be matched with the required toilet facilities based on expected enrolment.

The executive secretary also announced a revision of the matching grant formula to enable states to deploy UBEC funding according to their specific education needs.

Garba explained that the previous formula had largely focused on new infrastructure, leaving some states unable to access funds because their priorities had shifted from constructing new schools to maintaining and improving existing facilities.

“The new formula allows each state to look at their own needs. If their needs on the ground is furniture, if their needs on the ground is renovating all schools to ensure that our schools now have fencing, have computers, have furniture, then they are allowed to do that,” she said.

Garba also stated that the revised framework could also support interventions such as enrolment materials and additional teachers where states identified increased enrolment as a priority.

On the BEAPMS, she said the digital system would enable communities to participate in monitoring projects implemented under the roadmap.

FG Approves Upgrade Of Onne, Rivers, Delta, Calabar Ports

The Federal Government has approved the comprehensive modernisation and upgrade of Onne, Rivers, Delta and Calabar ports as part of efforts to expand Nigeria’s maritime capacity and reduce the concentration of cargo traffic around Lagos.

The Minister of Marine and Blue Economy, Adegboyega Oyetola, announced the approval, saying it would complement ongoing investments in Apapa and Tin Can Island ports.

Oyetola said the move was aimed at developing a more balanced, efficient and globally competitive national port system capable of supporting trade, industry and investment.

According to him, upgrading infrastructure and improving operational efficiency at the four ports would enhance cargo handling, reduce vessel turnaround times and strengthen regional connectivity.

He said extending the modernisation programme beyond Lagos would create additional efficient gateways for international trade and make the movement of goods more predictable and cost-effective.

“These ports have strategic roles to play in our trade, industrial and regional development, and we are determined to equip them to meet the demands of a growing economy,” Oyetola said.

The minister said the latest approval formed part of a broader expansion of Nigeria’s maritime infrastructure, which also includes Federal Government approvals for the development of the Ibom, Bakassi, Agge, Gateway, Ondo and Bonny deep seaports.

Oyetola said the government was pursuing a comprehensive approach that combines the modernisation of existing ports with the development of new deep seaports.

He said the investments would expand Nigeria’s maritime capacity and create stronger economic corridors, while positioning the country as a major maritime and logistics hub in Africa.

The minister added that the government’s vision was to develop an integrated maritime and logistics system linking ports with roads, rail and inland waterways to facilitate the seamless movement of cargo.

He said the ministry would continue to work with state governments, terminal operators, investors, shipping companies and other stakeholders to ensure the approved projects translate into tangible improvements across the marine and blue economy.

World Rabies Day: ZLDA identifies 900 cases, calls for stronger partnership to curb spread of rabies in Zamfara

From John Bassey, Gusau

As the world marked the existence of rabies virus today, Zamfara state Livestock Development Agency ZLDA announced identification of 900 cases within the state, calling for stronger partnership with traditional leaders, relevant organizations and stakeholders to curb the spread of the disease.

The call was contained in a statement made by Mr. Jafar Shinkafi, Head of Administration and Human Resources of Zamfara state Livestock Development Agency while addressing journalists at the event.

World Rabies Day was marked via awareness campaign walk from Samaru to Emir's Palace where the Emir, Abdulkadir Ibrahim Bello and his entire council of Chiefs received ZLDA and all the organizations who participated in the exercise.

Dr. Usman Samaila Gusau, Executive Secretary, Zamfara state Livestock Development Agency stated that, the purpose of coming to Emir's Palace was to seek collaboration with the Emir and all the traditional leaders of Zamfara state in the continued fight against rabies in the state.

He called on the people of Zamfara state to endeavor to vaccinate their pets annually in order to curb the menace of rabies in all the 14 LGAs.

The Emir of Gusau Alhaji Abdulkadir Ibrahim Bello prayed for the success of the immunization campaign and urged traditional leaders in all the 14 LGAs to gather their subjects and educate them on the menace of rabies, so they could join the fight against the spread of rabies in the state.

He called on everyone to join the free treatment for rabies virus which is built to commence on Tuesday, 29th September.

In his words, Malam Jafar Shinkafi, Head of Administration and Human Resources of Zamfara state Livestock Development Agency said, the aim of today campaign is to instill in the minds of the populace

a sense of responsibility in handling and managing pets

Rabies is a highly contagious and dangerous disease, individual pets owners should be able to manage their pets properly, in order to identify their health conditions timely and stop the possible spread of the disease by immediately taking the animals to the nearest veterinary clinic for professional attention.

Since the creation of this Agency by the People's Governor, Dr. Dauda Lawal last year, the Agency have identified 900 Rabies cases across the Zamfara state, that is we have joined our counterpart in other countries across the globe to mark this year's world Rabies Day in order to seek more meaningful measures to combat the menace of the disease in our dear state.

Importers Get N100m Cover As Insurance Brokers Face Tighter Liability

Importers are set to have stronger protection against losses arising from professional errors in cargo insurance arrangements, following a new requirement compelling insurance brokers to maintain a minimum professional indemnity cover of N100 million.

The provision is contained in the Nigerian Insurance Industry Reform Act (NIIRA) 2025 and is particularly relevant to businesses that rely on insurance brokers to arrange protection for cargo and other assets involved in international trade.

National President of the National Council of Registered Insurance Brokers (NCRIB), Mrs Ekeoma Ezeibe, disclosed the development while highlighting the implications of the new law for insurance consumers.

According to Ezeibe, brokers are required to maintain professional indemnity cover of not less than N100 million or 50 per cent of their previous year's annual brokerage income, whichever is higher.

She said the requirement would provide an additional layer of protection for policyholders who suffer losses as a result of wrongful or negligent professional advice from their insurance brokers.

For importers, the provision could become particularly significant where errors in professional advice contribute to losses involving imported cargo and other risks associated with transportation and international trade.

Ezeibe described the NIIRA 2025 as a transformative law, saying it had placed greater emphasis on protecting consumers within the insurance industry.

She said the professional indemnity provision would protect consumers against the consequences of wrongful advice provided by insurance brokers.

FG unveils off-grid co-ordination secretariat to streamline electricity project execution

The Federal Government has established an Off-Grid Coordination Secretariat to track commitments, manage risks, and eliminate project duplication across the power sector.

This was made known on Monday in Abuja at the official relaunch of the Off-Grid Stakeholder Coordination and Partnership Forum, organized by the Rural Electrification Agency (REA).

The forum involved the participation of key partners including Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit - Nigerian Energy Support Programme, UK Partnering for Accelerated Climate Transitions (UK PACT), SNV Netherlands Development Organisation, Global Off-Grid Lighting Association (GOGLA) and Murty International Ltd.

Delivering a keynote address at the event, the Minister of Power, Joseph Tegbe represented by his Chief of Staff, Doyin Adelabu identified sector fragmentation as a major hindrance to rapid electrification.

"Fragmentation is the quiet tax every under-coordinated sector pays: in duplicated effort, missed investment opportunities, and slower delivery of power to the Nigerians who need it most," he said.

The Minister noted that the Off-Grid Coordination Secretariat will convene issue-based working groups and generate shared market intelligence.

He also urged development partners, financiers, private operators, state governments, and civil society organizations to nominate focal points, share data, and participate actively. The Minister further pledged that the ministry will continue providing policy direction through the National Electrification Strategy and Implementation Plan while supporting state electricity markets under the Electricity Act.

Also speaking at the forum, the REA Managing Director, Abba Aliyu highlighted the need for a centralised platform to help the industry identify existing projects and allocate resources efficiently.

"As Nigeria's off-grid energy sector continues to expand in scale, investment, and institutional participation, there is an increasing need to establish an Off-Grid Sector Coordination Secretariat that will provide a structured platform for alignment across government institutions, development partners, private-sector operators, and other stakeholders," he said.

The REA MD explained that the Secretariat will strengthen coordination across the entire project lifecycle, from planning and project development to financing and implementation by promoting information sharing, harmonizing interventions, and aligning investments with national and subnational electrification priorities.

"This will help eliminate duplication of efforts, reduce institutional and operational inefficiencies, improve the allocation of scarce resources, and ensure that multiple programs do not inadvertently target the same communities while other underserved areas remain unattended."

"More importantly, the Secretariat will provide a common coordination framework through which projects, financing, technical assistance, and policy interventions can be strategically sequenced and deployed, thereby improving delivery efficiency, strengthening accountability, and maximizing the collective impact of public, private, and development-partner investments in Nigeria's off-grid electricity sector," he added.

GTCO declares ₦603.03bn Profit Before Tax, Pays ₦1 Interim Dividend

Guaranty Trust Holding Company Plc (GTCO Plc) has released its Audited Consolidated and Separate Financial Statements for the period ended June 30, 2026, to the Nigerian Exchange Group (NGX) and London Stock Exchange (LSE).

The Group declared a profit before tax (PBT) of ₦603.03 billion, driven by strong performance recorded on the interest and trading income lines, which grew year-on-year by 7.5% and 24.7%, respectively.

The strong earnings recorded were moderated by a ₦46.2 billion fair value loss recognised in H1 2026, limiting year-on-year growth in PBT to 0.4%.

The Group grew across its asset lines, reinforcing a 0.6% from 2.2% during the balance sheet that is well-structured, liquid and diversified. This growth was recorded in each jurisdiction where it operates a banking franchise, as well as across its Payments, Pension and Funds Management businesses.

The Group's total assets and shareholders' funds closed at ₦18.6 trillion and ₦3.3 trillion, respectively. Capital Adequacy Ratio (CAR) remained strong, closing at 34.9% at Group level and 29.2% at Bank level.

Asset quality also improved, as evidenced by IFRS 9 Stage 3 loans, which closed at 3.5% and 4.6% at Bank and Group levels, respectively, in H1 2026, compared with 3.4% and 5.0% in FY 2025. Cost of Risk (COR) improved to same period.

The Group's net loan book grew marginally by 0.5%, from ₦3.13 trillion as of December 2025 to ₦3.15 trillion in June 2026. Deposit liabilities, however, recorded stronger growth, rising by 10.3% from ₦12.87 trillion to ₦14.19 trillion during the same period.

Commenting on the results, the Group Chief Executive Officer of GTCO Plc, Mr Segun Agbaje, said: "Our half-year results speak to the strength of what we have built: a resilient franchise, a strong balance sheet and a business that no longer depends on banking alone. Fair value movements weighed on reported earnings, but the core business held firm."

"Interest and trading income grew, deposits strengthened, and asset quality improved at Group level. The priority now is to execute with discipline and grow responsibly. Digital is our lever for scaling across Banking, Payments, Pension and Funds Management, and for building a more diversified and resilient financial services group."

Overall, the Group continues to post strong metrics in the Nigerian financial services industry in terms of key financial ratios, including Pre-Tax Return on Equity (ROAE) of 35.9%, Pre-Tax Return on Assets (ROAA) of 6.6%, Capital Adequacy Ratio (CAR) of 34.9% (Bank: 29.2%) and Cost-to-Income Ratio of 31.5%.

Technology, Artificial Intelligence And The Future Of Property Valuation In Nigeria

Technology is changing the way property information is collected, analysed and communicated. Artificial intelligence, geographic information systems, digital mapping, automated data processing and other emerging technologies are increasingly relevant to the real estate industry. Nigeria's valuation profession must embrace these developments while preserving professional standards and judgement. Traditional valuation depends heavily on inspection, market evidence and professional analysis. Technology can make these processes faster and more systematic. Digital databases can store comparable transactions and rental evidence, while mapping systems can help professionals understand location characteristics and development patterns. Artificial intelligence can assist in identifying patterns in large datasets. Automated models may estimate property values based on historical transactions, property characteristics and location variables. Such tools can be useful for portfolio screening and preliminary analysis. However, automated estimates should not automatically be treated as professional valuations. Nigerian property markets can contain incomplete information, inconsistent records and highly localised factors. A computer model may produce a number without fully understanding a title issue, unusual tenancy arrangement, physical defect, planning restriction or other factor affecting value. The future is therefore more likely to involve collaboration between technology and professional expertise rather than complete replacement of the valuer.

Technology can handle large volumes of data, while the professional interprets evidence, inspects property and applies appropriate valuation judgement. Banks can benefit substantially from this approach. A large collateral portfolio can be monitored through digital systems that flag properties requiring revaluation because of market movements, data and administrative changes in condition or records.

Iyabo Ojo reflects on Motherhood Journey

Nollywood actress and filmmaker Iyabo Ojo has shared photos of herself, her two children and her grandchild as she reflects on her journey as a mother.

Taking to her official Instagram page, Iyabo described motherhood as a beautiful journey, saying that when she looks back at where she started, she can only say she is a testimony to God's greatness.

Iyabo added that her story is hope to the hopeless, and a voice of encouragement to every mother out there raising her children alone against all odds.

"Motherhood is indeed a beautiful journey. When I look back at where I started, I can only say, Alice Iyabo, you are a testimony to God's greatness. Your story is hope to the hopeless, and a voice of encouragement to every mother out there raising her children alone against all odds.

Recall that Iyabo Ojo got married to Ademidun Ojo, the father of her two children (Festus and Priscilla), in 1999 when she was 21 years old.

The couple separated and divorced around 2001, shortly after their daughter's birth, and Iyabo Ojo raised the children as a single mother.

Iyabo Ojo has been vocal about the stigma attached to single mothers and recounted how people called her all manner of names because of her failed marriage, both in the movie industry and the world at large.

She has also provided moral support and encouragement to single mothers, as she noted how single motherhood can be depressing, discouraging, upsetting, and rough.

During her daughter's baby shower, Iyabo had advised mothers and women on breaking the generational curse for their children.

Iyabo Ojo cautioned women not to assume that because a certain thing happened to their mother, it would happen to them, and that it must happen to their children.

In the video, Pastor Arome said, "So the next time you see someone showing what the Chinese are doing, that they are making engines, and then showing what the Nigerians are doing, we are praying, you don't understand that nations have callings. Our calling as a nation is revival."

Pastor Arome compared China's technological achievements with Nigeria's emphasis on prayer; VDM, however, said the man of God missed the point because, in his view, the two countries had different national callings.

"Therefore, you are conditioning the minds of the youth in Nigeria that they should forget about creativity and innovation and they should rely on prayers; meanwhile, you have now carried your family and taken them to America that was not built with prayer and a certain calling of revival.

"That was built with technology and brains and doing, not relying on prayers."

The controversial media critic also questioned the decision to publicly announce the acquisition of permanent residence, particularly because Pastor Arome had reportedly said he prayed about the development.

He argued that the pastor's decision raised questions about the message being communicated to young Nigerians who may look up to religious leaders for guidance.

"You moved your family to a country that is not built with prayers, and the youths were encouraged to think outside the box. Geniuses later came. Facebook, the founder of Facebook is in the United States.

"Bezoz is there. Elon is there. One billionaire there are 20 to 30 from that place. And these people are not prayer warriors. These people are inventors and innovators."

He criticised what he described as a contradiction between encouraging Nigerian youths to focus on prayer while discouraging them from looking towards countries such as China for examples of technological development.

"But they are telling the youth of Nigeria that they should not look at China, that China is building machines. They should forget China, and they should rely on prayers."

Blaqbonez better than most Nigerian rappers but lacks personality – CDQ

Indigenous rapper CDQ has shared his opinion about his colleague, Blaqbonez, claiming that he is better than many Nigerian rappers but lacks a strong personality.

Speaking in a recent episode of the Faloh Frequency podcast, CDQ said Blaqbonez was lyrically better than veterans such as Vector, Ice Prince, Reminisce and Falz.

He also commented on the rivalry between Blaqbonez and Odumodublvck, claiming that the former was better musically but lacked the personality of the latter.

"Blaqbonez is better than Odumodublvck music-wise, but Odumodublvck edges him when it comes to personality. Blaqbonez is also better than Falz, Ice Prince, Reminisce and Vector," he said.

You lost my child because of waist Trainers you were wearing – MC Fish calls out Ex wife Anita Joseph Nightlife entertainer Fisaayo Olagunju, popularly known as MC Fish, has made some allegations against his estranged wife, actress Anita Joseph.

MC Fish made the claims in a series of posts on his Instagram story.

According to him, he allegedly took loans and entered into different financial agreements to meet the demands of the lifestyle they were living.

He also rejected claims that Anita was the one who financially supported him throughout their marriage.

The entertainer further alleged that his financial situation became strained because of the expenses he incurred while trying to maintain the lifestyle. He also claimed that Anita had not been able to maintain the same standard of living since their separation.

He wrote: "Lol, lemme school you guys a bit in this: she fed him a narrative. Firstly, I never wanted to do this because, in life, when you do good or do something for someone, it's always bad for them to start talking about it, but enough is enough.

"Remember, it's been over a year since my separation, and I want to do a few things. You claimed to the public that you fed me when all we did was use my hard-earned money and take loans to add to that to keep up a lavish lifestyle.

"More than a year later, you still can't get yourself a proper house and a car to support you and your family. Which was never the case under my care. My surname, Olagunju, the CEO of the property company, had three names on the list for an ambassadorial deal, and my surname stood out why? Cause the CEO bought a car from my dad when he was relocating to Canada back in 2015.

"I took loans and entered all sorts of agreements to keep up a fake life you were desperately trying so hard to keep. And for that same reason, I thank God I have been freed from all that madness. The need to desperately appear cool when it's obvious you need serious help. Ego and pride are very bad things.

"Remember I told you, it was because of all those waist trainers you are wearing that you lost my child."

Lionel Messi has moved within two goals of the all-time free-kick record after scoring a stunning set-piece for Inter Miami against Columbus Crew.

The 39-year-old Argentine curled home from a near-impossible angle in the 33rd minute to level the scores after Columbus had taken an early lead through Josef Martínez.

Messi stood over the free-kick near the right touchline and, instead of crossing into the box, whipped the ball over the wall and into the far top corner, leaving goalkeeper Patrick Schulte helpless.

The goal took Messi's career tally from direct free-kicks to 76 in official matches for Barcelona, Paris Saint-Germain, Inter Miami and Argentina, according to

Messi nets 76th free-kick, closer to all-time record football transfer expert Fabrizio Romano.

However, Inter Miami could not complete the comeback, as Columbus secured a 2-1 victory with a stoppage-time winner.

Messi's latest strike leaves him two goals behind Brazilian Marcelinho Carioca, who is widely credited with 78 direct free-kick goals.

Messi has enjoyed an impressive run from set pieces this year, scoring against San Diego FC to reach 75 before netting twice in Inter Miami's 7-1 victory over CF Montréal.

He has also scored free-kicks against Orlando City and New York City FC for Inter Miami, as well as against Jordan with Argentina at the 2026 World Cup.

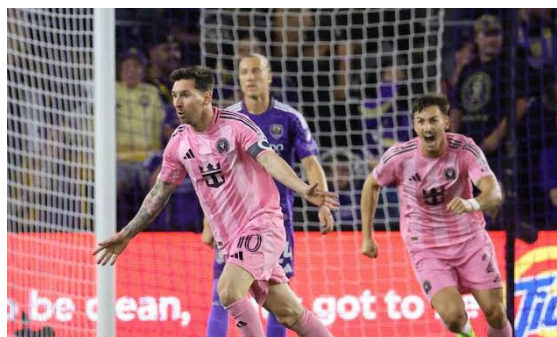

The latest goal further underlined Messi's reputation as one of football's most dangerous free-kick takers in the latter stage of his career.

He scored 50 direct free-kicks for Barcelona, more than a dozen for Argentina, and has added several more since joining Inter Miami in 2023.

Messi's overall career goal tally has now risen above 931.

Historical free-kick records vary depending on the criteria used by different statistical compilers. While some lists place Brazilian Juninho Pernambucano near the top with 77, recent tallies put Marcelinho Carioca first and Messi second following his latest goal.

Nations League: Jesus reveals why Ronaldo was benched against Norway

Portugal head coach Jorge Jesus has explained his decision to leave Cristiano Ronaldo on the bench for Sunday's UEFA Nations League clash against Norway.

Ronaldo was an unused substitute as Gonçalo Ramos was named in the starting XI for the encounter.

Portugal secured a 2-1 victory over Norway, with Gonçalo Ramos and João

Félix scoring for the hosts.

Speaking about why he benched Ronaldo, Jesus said (via Al Nassr Zone on X): "Today is the third day. Cristiano played around 70 minutes against Wales, and I saw that he is not able to start two consecutive matches."

"We want Cristiano Ronaldo to be with us for these four matches, whether he plays more minutes or fewer, but we want him to be on the pitch."

UEFA Nations League: Olise wonder goal gives France win in Belgium

Michael Olise's magnificent late strike gave France a 1-0 victory in Belgium in the UEFA Nations League on Monday as Zinedine Zidane made it two wins out of two since being named coach.

Bayern Munich star Olise, who was one of the outstanding players at the World Cup in which France reached the semi-finals, came off the bench late on with the game in Brussels goalless, and set off from inside his own half to score the winner in the 88th minute.

The win follows a 1-0 success away to Turkey last Friday in Zidane's first game at the helm after succeeding Didier Deschamps as coach following the World Cup.

France are therefore top of Nations League Group A1 with six points, three points ahead of Belgium and Italy, with the latter winning 4-1 in Turkey on Monday.

Les Bleus play host to Italy next at the Stade de France on Friday on what will be Zidane's homecoming. France will then entertain Belgium next Monday.

Zidane was without captain Kylian Mbappe here with the Real Madrid striker having returned to his club for treatment after injuring his left knee while scoring the winner against Turkey.

The French line-up at the King Baudouin Stadium showed nine changes, with goalkeeper Mike Maignan and Chelsea defender Maxence Lacroix the only players to keep their places.

There was notably a debut in midfield for Lucas Da Cunha of Como in Italy, as well as in attack for Esteban Lepaul of Rennes, the top scorer in France's Ligue 1 last season.

Belgium, in contrast, made only two changes to the team that started last Friday's 2-0 win in Italy for what was new coach Mark van Bommel's home bow.

France had the better of the chances with Paris Saint-Germain's Desire Doue cracking a shot off the bar in the first half and Da Cunha striking the post early in the second half.

But the contest was heading to an unremarkable goalless conclusion until Olise intervened, having been sent on in the 77th minute in place of Liverpool winger Bradley Barcola.

The London-born player collected possession inside his own half and advanced all the way to the edge of the Belgian box before curling a shot beyond the reach of Senne Lammens into the bottom-left corner of the net. AFP.

Arsenal, Real Madrid make initial Haaland contact amid Man City charges fallout

Arsenal and Real Madrid have made contact with representatives of Erling Haaland after reports that Manchester City were found guilty of breaching Premier League financial rules, sources have told Football Insider.

The reported development has raised questions over Haaland's future at the Etihad Stadium and prompted interest from two of Europe's leading clubs. Sources said Arsenal and Real Madrid moved quickly to inquire about the 26-year-old's situation.

Reports on Friday said an independent panel had found City guilty of 114 of the 115 financial charges brought against them by the Premier League. City have consistently denied wrongdoing since legal proceedings began in 2023 and are now beginning an appeal process.

The club's possible sanctions remain uncertain, but the outcome could include relegation from the top flight. That prospect has cast doubt over the futures of City's highest earners, including Haaland.

Haaland's contract at City runs until 2034 and is not understood to contain a relegation clause. Even so, Arsenal and Real Madrid are said to be monitoring whether the situation could open the door to a move.

Arsenal have long sought a long-term solution at striker, while Real Madrid were interested in Haaland before he joined City in 2022. Sources indicated that initial contact has been made over a possible move in 2027, though no formal offer has been reported.

Barcelona had also retained an interest in Haaland before the reported verdict, according to sources cited by Football Insider. However, Arsenal and Real Madrid have now emerged as the most active parties.

City's on-field form has not been affected by the off-field uncertainty. Haaland has scored seven goals in as many club games this season and added a brace for Norway in their Nations League win over Denmark on Thursday.

If City are forced into the Championship, or even lower, the club would likely need to make significant sales. A demotion to League Two has also been described as a possibility.

'I no longer have privacy' — Cape Verde World Cup hero Vozinha

Cape Verde World Cup hero Vozinha has revealed that he would choose his life before fame, saying his sudden rise to global prominence has cost him his peace and privacy.

The 40-year-old goalkeeper told The Observer, as reported by Reuters, that the attention he has received since his country's historic World Cup campaign has dramatically changed his everyday life.

"I've lost my peace and tranquillity. I no longer have any privacy," Vozinha said.

"I go to a restaurant, and there's always someone who wants to take a photo with me or asks me for an autograph. Or worse, someone's filming me... I don't think there's anything I can do about it."

Vozinha became a global name during Cape Verde's first appearance at the World Cup after helping the African side keep clean sheets against eventual champions Spain and Saudi Arabia.

His performances helped Cape Verde reach the knockout stage before Argentina eventually defeated them 3-2.

The goalkeeper's fame grew rapidly after his stand-out performances, with his Instagram following reportedly rising from about 56,000 to more than 28 million.

His World Cup displays also earned him a nomination for the Yashin Trophy, awarded to the year's best goalkeeper.

But while the new attention has brought global recognition, Vozinha said he has struggled with the loss of privacy, with the impact also extending to his family.

Fans now reportedly visit his mother's home in Cape Verde daily seeking photographs and conversations with the family.

"I'm not there so I can't help them [his parents]. They have to learn with the situation and set boundaries," Vozinha said.

He also warned that fame is often viewed only from its positive side.
